THE BELFAST RIOTS.

Protestants and Catholics Come Together With Disastrous Results.
BELFAST, August 2.—The riotous spirit which has been at high pressure in Belfast for many weeks again manifested itself on Saturday night. A band of music

Marched through the streets about 7 o'clock on its way to meet several hundred children belonging to the Protestant Sunday schools, who were returning from an excursion. The band was followed by a large crowd, which greeted an assemseries of groans mingled with taunts and jeers. The Catholics replied to this obnoxious salutation with a shower of stones, and the mob accompanying the band retaliated in kind.

A big mob of Orangemen collected in a surprisingly brief space of time. The police were soon upon the ground and endeavored to disperse the crowd, but the number of Orangemen rapidly increased and forced the Catholics from the hill. They then turned their attention to skin-evern kept by a Catholic named McKenna, which they completely gutted, leaving not a pane of glass unbroken nor an article of furniture intact. The police made frequent charges upon the rioters, but were in every case repulsed by showers of stones and many of them were severely

Leaving McKenna's hotel a wreck, the rioters attacked a number of houses believed to be inhabited by Catholics, battering down doors, smashing windows, and tearing up fences and rubble. The police again charged the crowd, but the mob tore up the movements and buried volley after volley of stones thus obtained at the officers, driving them from the scene. The police rallied, and were ordered to fire into the mob, which they did with guns loaded with buckshot. The rioters then fell back suddenly, disclosing the fact that many wounded. The police followed up their advantage, although they did not fire again, and drove the rioters from the ground, compelling them gradually to disperse. A boy named Knox, who was going on an errand, was shot dead, but igned the remainder of the night, but the rioters made their reappearance on the streets at an early hour to-day, congregating about the corners and their numbers gradually increasing. They finally became so formidable that the po-attacked the officers with stones. The police poured a volley of buckshot into the crowd, wounding a large number of them, but this only had the effect to enrage the mob, and they threw themselves upon the police with desperate fury. While a the police and a portion of the mob, another, a larger department of the rioters, devoted themselves to wrecking buildings occupied by Catholics. In this occupation, as well as that of waging battle with the police, the mob was suddenly and effectively interrupted by the arrival of the mill ary, whose appearance on the scene was the signal for a general stampede. The military pursued the crowd; and with the assistance of the police, arrested forty-six of the rioters, who were put in jail. The police fought with terrific bravery and at fearful odds, scarcely one engaged in the French Elections.

2 AM, August 2.—Returns from 1,033 of the districts in which elections were held for Conseillers Generaux have been received. Fourteen hundred and fifty of these officials are elected triennially. In 36 of the districts heard from Republi-conservatives have been successful. In 107 districts a second ballot will be required. The Republican press calculate that the Republican majority will not be seriously diminished.

LONDON, August 2.—Lord Lonsdale has been sentenced to pay a fine at Newcastle for assaulting David Debnorde, the husband of Violet Cameron, the well known burlesque actress. The husband had quarrelled with Lord Lonsdale in a room at a tavern, and had been kicked out of the apartment by Lord Lonsdale, who otherwise maltreated him.
